FOREWORD

The manuscript section attached to the Sanskrit Department, though of recent growth, has in its possession a fairly large number of Sanskrit manuscripts of varying degrees of importance. This branch owes its genesis to the gift of the Sanskrit manuscripts by the survivors of the late Mahamahopādhyāya Mahesh Chandra Nyaparatna, who was a celebrated Principal of the Sanskrit College, Calcutta. These manuscripts were the personal property of the server and the Calcutta University accepted with thanks this precious present of one thousand and fifty-four manuscripts. Lately, there was accession of fresh collections from various sources, the majority of which was in the nature of voluntary presentation. It was not felt necessary to sort them out, put them under covers and have them catalogued. The spontaneous growth of the manuscript collections will account for the want of classification subject-wise. Besides, there is only one Pandit of the traditional type who was entrusted with the varied functions and it was not deemed advisable to run the risk of inordinate delay to have them classified before the preparation of the catalogue, the first part of which is now being presented to the academic world.

We hope, however, that there will be no difficulty in finding out the nature and contents of the manuscripts, as an index of subjects and an index of authors have been added as an appendix. The plan of the catalogue was conceived by MM. Vaidyaśekhara Bhattacharyya who was the Head of the Sanskrit Department when the collection came into the possession of the University. So, the entire credit of the conception of the plan should go to MM. Bhattacharyya.

It is proposed to publish the catalogue part by part. The first part that is now published contains what we call the Nyaparatna Collection. The subjects are rather those which were studied by the average run of Sanskrit scholars in those days. There are, however, certain works which are not available elsewhere. These are mostly commentaries on the sections of the Tattvavaiśiṣṭyā of Gāṅgadhara. We may mention among others the commentaries of Jagadīś Tarkhāṭhita and Kāpila Tarkhāṭhita on portions of the Tattvavaiśiṣṭyā, which will have an academic and historical interest to modern scholars. There is a commentary on the Mahābhārata by Mathurāśiṣya, the celebrated Nyaīyika of Navadvīp.

Though the large part of the collection consists of commentaries on the Mahābhārata, works on Navya Smṛti and Purāṇa, which are now well-known and available in print, yet the manuscripts will not be entirely deprived of their value. These have been found to be of service to scholars when a textual difficulty compelled them to consult the manuscripts for the determination of the correct reading. No printed edition is perfect and whenever an occasion will arise for bringing out revised editions of even familiar text-books, these manuscripts will be found to be very helpful for the purpose.

The catalogue has been prepared by Pandit Amarendra Mohan Tarkatathā, who has been working as the Keeper of Sanskrit Manuscripts and who has done it without the help of any assistant. It is refreshing to note that he has faithfully carried out the instructions that were offered.

I now propose to present on behalf of the Calcutta University the first part of the Descriptive Catalogue of manuscripts to the lovers and curious students of India's old culture and I hope that the work will be found to be useful by them.

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the train was the cold air.
 It was a sharp contrast to the warm, humid air of the South.
 I had heard that the North was a different world, and now I knew it was true. The people here were different, their customs and traditions were different. I felt like an outsider, like I didn't belong.
 But as I walked through the streets, I began to see the beauty of this new world.
 The architecture was different,
 the food was different, but there was a certain charm to it all. I was in a new world, and I was going to make it my own.
